Dehao Yu

The boundary reduction is very important for solving problems in unbounded domains. The natural boundary integral equation on an artificial boundary is the exact artificial boundary condition, it is also called DtN mapping. Based on it the natural boundary element method or DtN method, the exact and approximate artificial boundary method, some coupling and domain decomposition methods are developed and applied for solving many problems in unbounded domains.